The Syria crisis— stop British/Obama mad drive for WWII

CEC National Secretary Craig Isherwood declared today, “All competent strategists are aware that the current drive for a British and U.S.-led attack upon Syria could rapidly escalate into World War III. Australia will take up the chair of the UN Security Council on September 1, so we Australians have a special responsibility to speak out against this madness. Thus far, the ‘evidence’ for the Assad government having used chemical weapons is of the same quality as then-British PM Tony Blair’s infamous ‘sexed-up’ dossier in 2003 which claimed Saddam Hussein possessed WMD. That unleashed a needless war in Iraq with all its horrible, continuing consequences, but an attack on Syria may well unleash Hell on earth.

“Therefore”, Mr. Isherwood concluded, “I fully endorse the following statement just issued by the LaRouche Political Action Committee in the U.S., which is leading the drive to impeach President Obama before he can launch this holocaust.”

CONGRESS: STOP THERMONUCLEAR WAR AND DO YOUR JOB! THROW OBAMA OUT & PASS GLASS-STEAGALL

by Michael Steger, LaRouchePAC Policy Committee

There will be no announcement for thermonuclear war. It will have started and finished in the same time that many Americans spend in their evening commute. After an hour and a half of missile exchanges between every nuclear power in an armageddon unleashed by the insane President of the United States, the nuclear winter will then set in and destroy any chance for humanity surviving. We are now at the brink of such annihilation unless Obama’s drive for illegal war in Syria is ended and Obama is immediately impeached.

Therefore, Congress must immediately return to Washington D.C. and begin the impeachment of Barack Obama, or we will face hell on earth. Members of Congress have no excuse. The LaRouchePAC Policy Committee and associates told Congress in July of this year, that if they left we would face the “Guns of August”—where the actions of mad leaders have lead to the outbreak of world wars and economic destruction.

Not only were they warned before their Congressional recess, they were warned by Lyndon LaRouche when he stated in October of 2011 that the extrajudicial killing of Qadafi indicated that Obama and his British masters were intending to invade Syria and Iran under the guise of “right to protect”—setting the stage for thermonuclear war with Russia and China.

Since then, leaders both in Russia and the United States have intervened to stop this mad march to war. Former Russian President Dimitri Medvedev, with reference to Obama’s illegal actions in Libya and threats to Syria, stated at the International Legal Forum held in St. Petersburg on May 17, 2012, “Such actions, which undermine state sovereignty, can easily lead to full-scale regional wars, even—I am not trying to scare anyone here—with the use of nuclear weapons.”

Steps taken by U.S. military figures, typified by Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff General Martin Dempsey, et al., have kept Obama’s insanity and thirst for destruction at bay. Now, with the rapidly collapsing global financial system, and the growing support throughout the nation and the world for Glass-Steagall legislation—a bill that bankrupts the Wall Street and London criminal bastards while restoring national sovereignty—Obama and his British controllers have made a desperate move that threatens the future of mankind.

Leaders in the U.S. Congress have already warned the administration of impeachment, including the joint resolution sponsored by Rep. Walter Jones (R-NC), HCR 40, which puts impeachment on the table for any executive action of war without the approval of congress. This warning was echoed late last year by Rep. Jones and Rep. Rangel (D-NY) at a joint press conference they held to emphasize the growing threat to our nation and the world. And, as of this writing, 33 members of Congress—29 Republicans and 4 Democrats—have insisted that Congress return to D.C. and vote on any acts of war targeting Syria.

The orders to Congress are clear: they must immediately return to Washington D.C. and bring Barack Hussein Obama to trial for high crimes and acts equivalent to treason. His actions betray our Constitution and the principles of natural law, and risk human extinction through thermonuclear war. Second, they must make Glass-Steagall law and secure the basic economic interests of the nation by prosecuting the criminal thugs of Wall Street, and creating a future of massive development and fundamental progress through thermonuclear power and NAWAPA.

End of statement

Australians must act to stop this fraudulent war, before it escalates out of control into a full-blown thermonuclear showdown. Prime Minister Kevin Rudd is a tool of the British secret intelligence apparatus¹ which is orchestrating the war, and which also cooked up the key lies cited to attack Iraq. Under Rudd, the Australian government is actively assisting the British to orchestrate an “intervention” without waiting for evidence of which side in Syria is responsible for any use of chemical weapons—the Assad regime which had just invited in UN weapons inspectors, or the al-Qaeda terrorist network-dominated opposition.

The following links show past releases by the CEC, which document the criminal actions, including aiding and abetting al-Qaeda terrorists, which Britain, the U.S. and possibly Australia, have engaged in over a long period of time, in order to create the pretext for regime change in Syria:

Qaeda in Libya and Syria²

- Top U.S. official: British-Obama lies on Syrian chemical weapons ‘preposterous’³

Rudd is Britain's agent to turn Syria into WWII

Everything that the media is feeding Australians right now about the Syrian chemical weapons attack is "Iraqi WMDs"-style propaganda crafted in London, to orchestrate a military intervention that could blow up into WWII.

The British are manipulating Australia, through their agent Kevin Rudd¹, a longtime intelligence operative closely tied into MI6, so that Australia's position as incoming president of the UN Security Council is used to escalate, rather than resolve, the conflict.

Chemical weapons?

Rudd stated to the ABC's "Insiders" program on 25 August that because the Iraq war was based on lies, on the question of a chemical weapons attack in Syria "it's absolutely critical we get the facts absolutely right first." But then Rudd showed that he and his Anglo-American cronies have no intention of getting the facts right, by demanding a reversal of the onus of proof on to the Syrian government, to prove it didn't use chemical weapons. "But the burden of proof, in my judgment, now lies with the [Assad] regime," Rudd said. Deliberately preempting the work of UN weapons experts presently on the ground in Syria, British Foreign Secretary William Hague is insisting the Assad regime did conduct an attack, but that the evidence is probably gone. Furthermore, the UN team's mandate is only to determine if a chemical attack occurred, not who is responsible, further hindering the Assad government's chances of exoneration in the western media.

Contrary to the Anglo-American claim that there is "little doubt" the Syrian government committed a chemical weapons atrocity, there is huge doubt; here are some "facts" that aren't being widely reported in the Australian media:

On 19 August an expert team of UN weapons inspectors arrived in Damascus to examine evidence relating to previous allegations of chemical weapons attacks; members of the UN team reported "compelling" evidence that the Syrian army had not, and could not have, conducted chemical weapons attacks that the British and others had previously accused them of doing.

Back in May, Swiss judge Carla del Ponte, a member of the UN Commission of Inquiry on Syria, caused diplomatic conniptions in New York and London by making public the Commission's findings that if Sarin gas was used in previous incidents, it was by the Anglo-American-backed Syrian rebels, and not by the Syrian government.

On 21 August, while the UN team was still there, the Syrian rebels announced a massive chemical attack in the Al Ghouta neighbourhood of Damascus, and first claimed it was delivered by a barrage of rockets, and then by aerial bombing by the Syrian Air Force, yet the footage of the incident that the rebels provided to all western media showed no evidence of shrapnel wounds from explosions.

The Israeli daily Ha'aretz on 22 August reported both American and British chemical weapons experts further questioning the footage, because none of the people assisting the victims or taking photographs are wearing chemical-warfare protective gear, but are unharmed.

The media is accusing the Assad regime of delaying the UN team from examining the area of the attack so the evidence can dissipate, but the Russian Foreign Ministry has charged that it was the Syrian rebels who were stopping the UN weapons experts from inspecting Al Ghouta,

Australia to use UN role to push for Syria solution: Kevin Rudd

August 25, 2013 Heath Aston Political reporter

This 25 August article in The Age reports that Rudd will push the U.N. to move against Syria. The real issue is the Empire's slipping grip over the globe as their financial system collapses.

and the UN Department of Safety and Security acting head Kevin Kennedy told the 24 August Washington Post that his office needed security guarantees from both sides, which it hasn't received; Rima Kamal, a spokeswoman for the Red Cross, pointed out to the Washington Post that the rebels are in control of the Al Ghouta area.

The British government under Tony Blair concocted the key lies that led to the 2003 invasion of Iraq, and today it is the British again, along with Syria's former colonial master France, pushing for Iraq-style regime change in Syria. Despite Kevin Rudd's public posturing against the Iraq war, he was one of a handful of right-wing Labor "chicken hawks" to vote in the ALP caucus to support Australia's involvement in that illegal invasion, and he has since played a leading role in his time as Foreign Minister in pushing the propaganda for regime change in Syria.

The Anglo-Americans are targeting Syria as a proxy for their strategic targeting of Russia and China, including with nuclear weapons², which has created dangerous preconditions for another world war. They have cynically manipulated the so-called Arab Spring to turn virtually the entire Middle East into a theatre of war, prompting Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov to comment last September that he hoped the Arab Spring didn't turn into a "nuclear winter". The Anglo-Americans have even betrayed the American, British and Australian soldiers who have fought and died in Afghanistan fighting the al-Qaeda terrorist network, by unleashing the very same al-Qaeda jihadists to target the regimes in Libya, then Syria and now the transitional government in Egypt, all funded by Britain's terrorist-sponsoring client-state Saudi Arabia³.

Australians must demand the truth now, before we find ourselves complicit in another war we know to be a crime, but this time counting down to a thermonuclear WWII.
