The full court press for war with Russia is on!

The CEC endorses the following release issued by the LaRouche Political Action Committee which exposes the frantic efforts underway right now to instigate war with Russia, even the unthinkable—thermonuclear war. Helga LaRouche, the founder and president of the Schiller Institute, addressed this imminent war danger, in a 28 February webcast entitled, Ending the Age of Austerity—Join the BRICS' Mass Movement for Development. Mrs LaRouche exposes the insanity of the proponents of war with Russia, who advocate the fantasy of a “limited” nuclear war, and maps out how the only pathway to peace is through establishing a new international economic order based on nations collaborating on physical economic development that uplifts the living standards of all people. The kernel of this peace solution already exists, in the shared commitment to economic development that is the basis of the alliance of the BRICS nations—Brazil, Russia, India, China, South Africa.

Obama, Nuland and Parubiy Push Eurasian War

(LPAC) 27 February, 2015—Euromaidan fascist commander Andriy Parubiy, now the deputy speaker of the Ukraine Supreme Rada, made the rounds in Washington this week, meeting with Victoria Nuland, John McCain, and John Boehner, and pressing for the US to provide weapons to the Kiev regime. The push for weapons by hardcore Ukrainian Banderists (Parubiy was a co-founder in 1991 of the Social Nationalist Party of Ukraine) to fight Russia, is the immediate flash-point for strategic confrontation in the heart of Eurasia. Parubiy was joined in Washington on Thursday by former Georgian President Saakashvili, who is a strategic advisor to the Poroshenko/Yatsenyuk government in Kiev. The full court press for war with Russia is on!

Lyndon LaRouche warned yesterday that the actions of Obama, Nuland, Parubiy, and others represent the potential trigger for the outbreak of a war that can lead to the destruction of mankind.

While, as Lyndon LaRouche has emphasised, even the most fanatical of the Anglo-American war party are not consciously out to trigger a war of extinction of mankind—a full-throttle global strategic thermonuclear confrontation between the United States and NATO on one side, and Russia and China on the other—they do believe that a “limited” war, even a “limited nuclear war” can be localised in the heartland of Eurasia, targeted at the Russia and China core of the BRICS nations.

The drive for such a “limited” nuclear war is moving ahead against both Russia and China. A survey of the past months reveals that there is an intense battle under way, behind the scenes, within the NATO trans-Atlantic system, over the deployment of a new generation of “limited nuclear weapons” in both Europe and in the Asia-Pacific region. Leading critics of the scheme in the US and Germany have raised the roof over the planned modernisation of the US arsenal of 180 tactical nuclear weapons in Europe, the B61 bombs. Under the Obama Administration’s nuclear modernisation plans, the new generation of B61-12 tactical nuclear weapons will be more accurate, and deliverable by longer range, forward-based aircraft, capable of hitting sites deep inside Russia.

In the Asia-Pacific region, Air Sea Battle (ASB), the Obama Administration’s war plan against China, similarly blurs the lines between nuclear and conventional warfare, by claiming the right to launch pre-emptive strikes against Chinese mainland critical security infrastructure. At the same time, Obama is pressing South Korea to accept the deployment of US missile defense systems, ostensibly against North Korea, that are actually more suited to the ASB targeting of China.

This desperate drive for war, including the “utopian” delusion of the possibility of “limited” nuclear confrontation in Eurasia, is ultimately driven by the fact that the City of London/Wall Street system of monetarist looting of nations has reached the end of the line. The Greek elections have accelerated the showdown over the bankruptcy of all of the trans-Atlantic too-big-to-fail banks, the ECB and the entire Eurozone system. There is only one solution, LaRouche emphasised: Return to national sovereignty, end the euro experiment, through an orderly Glass-Steagall reorganisation and return to sovereign currencies. The gambling debt is both illegal and unpayable. Greece owes nothing to the Troika.

It is this reality, and the prospect of the BRICS alternative, that is driving the war party to the edge, where they are pushing limited thermonuclear confrontation in Eurasia.

That is the danger of allowing Barack Obama, Victoria Nuland, and the rest, to remain in power. Fire Nuland and move to remove Obama from office, and the nuclear danger is greatly reduced. Sit back and allow them to continue on their current path, and the war that will come will not be limited to Eurasia. It will be a global war of annihilation.

Australia must join BRICS for peace through economic development

War danger

Tragically for the world, London and Washington and their allies such as Australia are under the control of neo-conservative political and financial interests whose reaction to the economic rise of Asia and the formation of the BRICS is pushing the world towards war.

These same neo-conservatives were the conspirators behind the lies that started the criminal Iraq war.

The Citizens Electoral Council has for three years warned Australians of this danger of war. Other notable Australians, such as former Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser, have made similar warnings. Essentially, Australia's strategic allies, the US and the UK/EU, are determined to maintain their economic and military dominance (commonly called hegemony) over the world. This has been the strategic policy since 1992 when notorious former US Vice President, then Secretary of Defense, Dick Cheney declared in a memo that US foreign policy must focus on stopping the rise of any possible military or economic rival. The Bush administration with the encouragement of Tony Blair pursued this strategy, and Barack Obama, with Tony Blair as his foreign policy adviser, has continued it. Australia has also supported it every step of the way, styling ourselves, under John Howard, as the "deputy sheriff" in the Asia-Pacific. Australia is turning into a military outpost for Obama's "Asia Pivot" of shifting America's foreign policy focus to Asia, which is aimed not at engaging Asia, but at militarily "containing" China, and any nation that collaborates with China. However, China will not, and should not have to, back down and submit to Anglo-American hegemony, and neither will Russia. This is inflaming tensions that could spiral into a nuclear war in which Australia is a major target.

Solution: Peace through economic development

The only solution to this danger is for the world to move to a new, just economic order based on nations collaborating on economic development. Practically, this means the nations of the world should welcome the rise of China, India, and their BRICS partners, and accept their offer of economic cooperation around great infrastructure projects. In greetings to the 30th anniversary conference of the Schiller Institute in Germany in October, Malcolm Fraser proposed, "There is an option and that is for the most powerful Western nations to realise that there have been great changes in the world, that the strategic context has altered, that other powers such as the BRICS are emerging and that the West should collaborate with them as partners to establish a more equal and a more just world."

Peace through economic development is the only solution because the cause of the crisis is economic collapse. London and Washington are frantic because, unlike the BRICS economies, the trans-Atlantic economies are dying. For decades City of London and Wall Street banks have engaged in unbridled financial looting through such incomprehensible scams as derivatives speculation, which has smashed much of the once-great productive manufacturing capacity of the US and Europe and drowned their economies in hundreds of trillions of dollars of unpayable derivatives obligations.

Because of this collapse, the financial oligarchy of the City of London and Wall Street, which control Europe and Washington, view the BRICS as a threat to their money-based power over the world economy. Theirs is a system of financial imperialism: they demand indebted nations change their laws to remove all obstacles for multinational banks and corporations to profiteer through deregulation and privatisation. These demands are enforced by the IMF and World Bank—both under the political control of the so-called "Washington consensus", which is a shared governing arrangement between the US and Europe. The governments of the BRICS nations are fiercely sovereign, and as they have grown in economic strength they have become increasingly unwilling to bow to financial diktats; moreover, by establishing alternatives to the IMF and World Bank the BRICS now offer other, smaller nations the chance to also break free of London and Wall Street interests behind the Washington Consensus.

For instance, the BRICS all support Argentina in its fight against the Wall Street "vulture funds" which buy government bonds for cents on the dollar and then get US courts to rule they must be paid in full, bankrupting the issuing government and denying their people essential services but gifting to the vulture funds profits of thousands of per cent. The BRICS are also collaborating with Egypt in its amazing New Suez Canal project which is funded entirely by ordinary Egyptians and is offering a job to every Egyptian under the age of 45.

Australia's choice

It is clearly in Australia's independent national interest to join in with the BRICS agenda for economic development. China is already our biggest trading partner, and India is also one of the biggest. Australia is an empty continent in desperate need of economic development, with which it could easily become a food bowl for our Asian neighbours, connected by high-speed shipping to all of the major Asian ports. However, this will require a break with our strategic dependence on the US and UK, which is stopping our collaboration. For instance, in October Obama directly pressured Prime Minister Tony Abbott to not join with China and India in the Asian Infrastructure Investment Bank, and Abbott complied.

The Citizens Electoral Council is an independent political party which is dedicated to the ideal of peace through economic development. The CEC is leading the fight to get Australia to break from its subservience to London and Washington, and assert itself as a sovereign nation committed to economic cooperation with its neighbours.
