

LaRouche Exposes Cheney Plot for Nuclear War, Dictatorship

August 1—On July 27, American statesman and economist Lyndon H. LaRouche, Jr. issued a dramatic warning that U.S. Vice President Dick Cheney intended to launch an unprovoked nuclear war against Iran during the month of August, under cover of a staged “new 911” against the U.S. Within 24 hours, the LaRouche Youth Movement (LYM) had saturated Washington D.C. and the U.S. Congress with the warning. Within 48 hours, a correspondent for LaRouche’s Executive Intelligence Review magazine had asked White House press spokesman Scott McClellan about Cheney’s plans against Iran. The exchange, in which McClellan essentially confirmed LaRouche’s charge, was immediately—and repeatedly—broadcast worldwide on CNN’s Headline News.

Meanwhile, LaRouche himself appeared on three radio shows to amplify his warnings, including a half-hour on talkSPORT, the United Kingdom’s number one, and largest commercial radio station, as his movement began the urgent distribution of 250,000 flyers titled “Cheney’s ‘Guns of August’ Threaten the World” in key centres across the U.S. Such an insane action by Cheney, LaRouche charged, would quickly lead to a planetwide nuclear war. As this New Citizen Extra went to print, LaRouche’s exposure had set the plot back, but it is still very much alive.

The Context

Cheney is the real power in the administration of President George W. Bush, since Bush suffers severe mental impairment, as is well known in Washington and other world capitals. However the sociopath Cheney is himself merely the hired thug of powerful, New York and London-centred financial forces (“the Synarchy”, pron. “Sin-ar-kee”, see box p.3), who are driven to desperation by the disintegration of their international “globalist” monetary system. As we detailed in our June, 2005, New Citizen Extra, “‘Mother of All Bubbles’ Exploding, Political Earthquakes Under Way”, a near-term explosion of that financial system is inevitable, and, in fact, it has already begun. In June, the highly-leveraged, completely unregulated hedge funds, who command assets of somewhere between US$1-3 trillion dollars (with an annual turnover in the quadrillions), lost tens of billions of dollars—enough to blow the entire system apart. Far fewer losses by the LTCM hedge fund in 1998 came within a hair of crashing the world monetary system, as later admitted by U.S. Federal Reserve chief Alan Greenspan. Given the present scale of losses, LaRouche warned, “Now, what will happen, very soon, will stagger your imagination. The world as you thought you knew it, the day before yesterday, is no longer the same world today.”

Within days, on July 7 four bombs exploded in London, killing 56 people and injuring hundreds more. Under cover of “financial market instability” allegedly due to the bombings, the world’s central banks, led by the Bank of England and the U.S. Federal Reserve, pumped tens of billions of dollars into the system as an emergency stopgap to cover the hedge fund losses. Within days, London-style bombings were unleashed in Cairo, in Egypt’s Red Sea resort of Sharm El Sheikh, and in Turkey, ushering in a new worldwide terror wave, while four additional unexploded bombs were allegedly found on London buses by British authorities. The London bombings were orchestrated by the City of London circles who own Tony Blair, and were to serve as the prelude for the “new 911” in the U.S., which in turn would be the trigger for Cheney’s Iran strike, and the immediate establishment of dictatorships in the U.S., the U.K. and elsewhere, undoubtedly including in Bush/Blair ally John Howard’s Australia, in order to control the population in the worst financial crash in history.

LaRouche Leads Drive to Impeach Cheney, Bush

The prospect of impeaching Cheney and Bush in order to stop their synarchist controllers’ drive for fascism and nuclear war has become a live issue in the U.S., thanks largely to the efforts of Lyndon LaRouche. This is of the utmost importance to any citizen anywhere, because as the U.S. goes, so goes the world, given the U.S.’s financial and military weight.

On November 2, 2004, when George W. Bush was re-elected as President of the United States, the opposition Democratic Party virtually collapsed. Many Democrats had expected their candidate, Senator John Kerry, to win, as indeed he probably did except for massive vote fraud and vote suppression by the Bush forces. LaRouche had played a key role in guiding the Kerry campaign to its near-victory, and, in a Webcast several days after the election, he rallied the Democratic Party by outlining a strategy to make the seemingly all-powerful Bush a “lame duck” within months. In addition to calling for the House and Senate to challenge the election (as they soon did, for the first time in over a century), the next move, LaRouche emphasised, was to defeat Bush’s plan to steal trillions of dollars in federal government-guaranteed superannuation (Social Security), by privatising Social Security and funneling the money into the stock market, to bail out the oligarchy’s collapsing financial system.

U.S. statesman Lyndon H. LaRouche, Jr. is rallying the forces to impeach the sociopath Cheney and the psychopath Bush.

As the Democratic Party began to fight, moderate “traditionalist” and patriotic Republican Senators were inspired to resist the Cheney/Bush neoconservative tyranny as well. This LaRouche-catalysed bipartisan coalition has since dealt a series of stinging defeats to the Cheney/Bush regime, including: defeat of its attempted Social Security privatisation; its attempt to slash veterans’ funding; its attempt to continue torture at Guantanamo Bay and

Abu Ghraib; its attempt to ram through the nomination of neoconservative John Bolton as U.S. Ambassador to the U.N. (Bush ultimately appointed him without Congressional approval, while the Congress was in recess); its attempt to privatise (i.e. destroy) the remaining U.S. national rail grid, Amtrak; and several other strategic issues, culminating in the historic bipartisan May 23 defeat of an attempted Bush/Cheney coup against hours before his warning of July 27, beginning with a qualified report from a former U.S. intelligence official, published in the Aug. 1 issue of American Conservative magazine. There, retired CIA officer Philip Giraldi wrote:

"The Pentagon, acting under instructions from Vice President Dick Cheney's office, has tasked the United States Strategic Command (STRATCOM) with drawing up a contingency plan to be employed in response to another 9/11-type terrorist attack on the United States. The plan includes a large-scale air assault on Iran employing both conventional and tactical nuclear weapons. Within Iran, there are more than 450 major strategic targets, including numerous suspected nuclear-weapons-program development sites. Many of the targets are hardened or are deep underground and could not be taken out by conventional weapons, hence the nuclear option. As in the case of Iraq, the response is not conditional on Iran actually being involved in the act of terrorism directed against the United States. Several senior Air Force officers involved in the planning are reportedly appalled at the implications of what they are doing—that Iran is being set up for an unprovoked nuclear attack—but no one is prepared to damage his career by posing any objections."

(emphasis added)

The report made sense, because it came in the context of the developing global financial crash, and also because, as EIR reported on May 27, the Bush Administration had just enacted a new doctrine known as CONPLAN 8022 ("Global Strike"), embracing preemptive nuclear war, with "mini-nukes" under the control of theatre military commanders. The new doctrine was originally conceived in the early 1990s by Dick Cheney, Paul Wolfowitz (until recently #2 at the Pentagon to US Secretary of Defense Rumsfeld, and now World Bank head), and Lewis Libby (now Cheney's chief of staff), when Cheney was Secretary of Defense under George H.W. Bush in the early 1990s, but Bush senior refused to enact it because it was so insane.

An additional indicator that the Iran strike was "live", was a series of eyewitness reports on Cheney's desperate "Hitler in the bunker" frame of mind, as the Bush Administration has lost one key battle in Congress after another, to a bipartisan coalition in the U.S. Senate, composed of the opposition Democrats, but also defectors from Cheney and Bush's own far-right-dominated Republican Party. Cheney has lashed out at senior Republican Senators, calling them "traitors" for such actions at trying to end the torture of the Abu Ghraib and Guantanamo prisons. Moreover, a federal investigation into Cheney and Libby for maliciously blowing the cover of CIA agent Valerie Plame Wilson in the lead-up to the Iraq war (see accompanying article) could well result in Cheney's near-term impeachment.

Upon cross-checking the American Conservative report with leading figures in the intelligence community and the U.S. Congress, LaRouche's associates found widespread knowledge of the plan among insiders. Only LaRouche, however, had the guts to act forcefully, and publicly, as he did in his warning on July 27.

The Myth of "Islamic Terrorism"

All strategically significant "international terrorism" is run by governments, or by powerful private agencies "offline" from governments. The entire modern apparatus of "Islamic terrorism" was built up by the Anglo-Americans as their asset during their war against the Soviets in Afghanistan during the 1980s. It is an open secret that the much-hyped Osama bin Laden, for instance, was then an Anglo-American asset, and still remains one, whether the Anglo-Americans continue to let him run free, at present, or whether they decide to kill him. The most important act of "Islamic terrorism", the 911 attacks in New York and Washington, could only have happened with complicity of sections of the U.S. military/intelligence apparatus, as LaRouche has documented—whether or not a few "Islamic faces" were conveniently found at the scene of the crime. In fact, in an international Webcast in January 2001, LaRouche had forecast precisely such a "Reichstag Fire" as 911, seven months before 911, since the world's financial system was unravelling even then. The purpose of this new Reichstag Fire was to consolidate a dictatorship, just as the original one was set by Hermann Göring on Feb. 27, 1933 and blamed on the communists, the pretext by which Chancellor Hitler seized dictatorial powers under the guise of fighting "communist terrorism". Marching in lockstep with his Anglo-American controllers, Howard rammed through a blizzard of police-state laws here, as well, in 2002, and is mooting another wave of even worse ones, even as Australian citizens of Islamic faith are being terrorised by the propaganda about "Islamic terror" and a "Clash of Civilizations". The future of Australia can be glimpsed in London, which is now a virtual armed camp, where police undertake carriage by carriage searches at rail and Tube stations, sharpshooters are poised on rooftops, and where Blair has asked for new powers to hold "terrorist suspects" for up to three months (instead of the present 14 days) and to legalise some of the notorious torture techniques from Guantanamo and Abu Ghraib.

Throughout 2003-2004, the LaRouche movement distributed millions of a pamphlet series entitled "The Children of Satan", which enormously weakened the "neoconservative" Bush/Cheney cabal. The neoconservatives are all pupils of the fascist philosopher Leo Strauss, himself a follower of Hitler's crown jurist, Carl Schmitt.

The "Guns of August"

LaRouche's July 27 warning, "Cheney's 'Guns of August' Threaten the World", echoed the title of the classic book by Barbara Tuchman about the first 30 days of World War I, when Germany, enveloped by European alliances, launched its own strike during August of 1914. World War II also effectively started in August, the time during which Hitler mobilised his blitzkrieg forces for the Sept. 1, 1939 invasion of Poland. The month of August is not accidental: that is the summer month in the northern hemisphere when most governments and much of the rest of society is "on vacation", and thus in no shape to respond to dramatic events. This time around, as Cheney was well aware, the U.S. Congress planned to recess in late July (as it did), not intending to return until after September 1. The "new 911", the strike on Iran, and the subsequent dictatorships were intended to be a fait accompli.

the 100-member U.S. Senate, by changing its 200-year-old rules to allow Bush/Cheney (the Executive branch) to trample the Senate (the co-equal Legislative branch), and thus to rule like Caesar in ancient Rome. Chief among the powers Bush/Cheney wanted to grab, was the ability to declare war at will, instead of, as at present, with the required consent of the Senate.

Given the U.S. Constitution, which specifies that the Vice President replaces an impeached President, the sociopath Cheney must be impeached first (and then replaced), followed by the impeachment of the mentally unstable Bush. There is a precedent for such action: in October 1973, Vice President Spiro Agnew resigned under threat of impeachment, and was replaced by Representative Gerald Ford. Then, with impeachment proceedings imminent against the tyrannical President Nixon, he, too, resigned, and the moderate Ford became President.

Bush/Cheney: The History of the Beast

In a groundbreaking piece in the July 29 issue of EIR, "Memo on 'The Pericles Syndrome': The Case of a Vice-President's Mass Insanity", LaRouche outlined the way in which the Congress must approach impeachment, which can only proceed on the basis of respect for the deep principles of natural law upon which the U.S. was founded, rather than the mere expediency of getting Bush and Cheney out, and perhaps violating those natural law principles in the course of doing so.

The establishment of the United States, LaRouche explained, arose from a 2500-year struggle which began with Solon, Socrates and Plato in Classical Greece, as enriched by the Judeo-Christian-Islamic conception of man made in the image of a monotheistic God. On that fundamental principle, the 15th Century Golden Renaissance gave birth for the first time to the notion of a "commonwealth" in which all citizens are equal; in all preceding history, an oligarchical few had ruled the mass of the population as virtual cattle, to be celled at will. Though France under Louis XI in the 15th Century had been established as the first modern nation-state, followed by Henry VII's England, by the 18th Century the oligarchy had largely re-established its power in Europe, such that the best minds of Europe conspired to establish a new sovereign republic in North America, a model which could then be imported back into Europe. The Preamble to the Constitution of this unique republic specified that government must be dedicated to the "general welfare" of all citizens and their posterity. To enforce that, the U.S. Constitution mandated national banking, as opposed to rule by Venetian-modeled syndicates of private financiers. Although national banking-centred sovereignty has often been violated in the U.S.—as it is at present—it is a sacred Constitutional principle, as opposed to European-style parliamentary democracies (as in Australia), where private financiers run the government through "independent central banks". The struggle of old Labor here for a national bank was directly modeled on the U.S. system.

The Birth of the Synarchy

In its attempt to wipe the young United States off the map, the ruling power in the United Kingdom, the British East India Company, sponsored the Jacobin Terror in France in 1789, and then the dictatorship of Napoleon, all to destroy the U.S.'s main European ally France, and the prospect that the American Revolution would spread to Europe. Its vehicle for both projects were the Martinist freemasonic lodges, who promoted the concept of "Synarchy", in which a concert of private financial powers would run the world. Known as the Synarchist International by the late 19th Century, these financial powers sponsored World War I to stop the "American System" of national banking-centred agro/industrial power from spreading worldwide, as it had started to do in Bismarck's Germany, in Witte's and Mendeleev's Russia, in Meiji Restoration Japan and elsewhere, posing an enormous threat to the British Empire/City of London and its Wall St. subsidiary.

Not satisfied that the hell of the First World War had sufficiently destroyed sovereign nation states, the Synarchy sponsored the rise to power of Mussolini, Hitler, Franco and other fascist leaders. Chief among those who financed Hitler and the Nazis, was the chief executive of the Anglo-American investment bank Brown Brothers Harriman, Prescott Bush—the grandfather of President George W. Bush! In the 1930s and 1940s, President Franklin Roosevelt was a bitter enemy of the Synarchy, and FDR's ambassador to Germany in the 1930s, William E. Dodd reported to FDR, "A clique of U.S. industrialists is hell-bent to bring a fascist state to supplant our democratic government and is working closely with the fascist regime in Germany and Italy. I have had plenty of opportunity in my post in Berlin to witness how close some of our American ruling families are to the Nazi regime. They extended aid to help Fascism occupy the seat of power, and they are helping to keep it there." As documented in the April, 2004 issue of the New Citizen, U.S. intelligence reports of the period are full of constant references to the Synarchy by name, and indeed, the Synarchy had prepared a fascist coup for Australia in 1931, had they not driven the Scullin Labor government from power by other means. Now, with its control over the world's globalist monetary system threatened by a great new financial collapse, in which nations might reassert the power of the sovereign nation state as FDR did for America in the 1930s, enabling the U.S. to defeat fascism, the Synarchy is using its Cheney/Bush assets to once again launch terrorism and world war. This time, however, it will be a nuclear war.

The Moves to Impeach Cheney

In the context of the mounting resistance to Cheney/Bush catalysed by LaRouche in the U.S. Senate, the process of impeaching the two of them has advanced very far, thus adding to the desperation of their oligarchical controllers to unleash war and fascism while they still can. The cutting edge of this process is the investigation by U.S. federal prosecutor Patrick Fitzgerald into who in the White House maliciously leaked the identity of covert CIA operative Valerie Plame Wilson in the lead-up to the Iraq war, in order to take revenge on her husband, Ambassador Joseph Wilson, who had played a key role in discrediting the "Saddam has nuclear weapons" lies used to launch that war.

In order to bolster claims of Iraq going nuclear, Cheney in 2002 had asked the CIA to investigate reports that the African nation of Niger was supplying Saddam with yellowcake (uranium). The CIA sent the highly-regarded former Ambassador Wilson to investigate. He found that the whole thing was a hoax, which was reported to Cheney. However, to coordinate the propaganda for war and discredit anyone opposed to it, the Cheney/Bush crowd set up the White House Iraq group (WHIG) in August 2002. To aid them, Tony Blair's British government issued its famous "sexed-up" dossier claiming that Saddam could launch chemical or biological weapons against the West "within 45 minutes"—which they knew to be an outrageous lie. Cheney continued to trumpet the fraudulent "Niger yellowcake" story as part of the justification for the war, whereupon Wilson went public in the New York Times with his findings.

As Fitzgerald has now determined, at least two senior officials of the WHIG group, Bush's top political adviser Karl Rove and Cheney's chief of staff Lewis Libby, attempted to take revenge and to destroy Wilson's credibility by blowing the cover of his wife, Valerie Plame Wilson, a WMD specialist for the CIA. Rove/Libby told reporters that Plame Wilson herself had sent her husband to Niger! It is impossible to overstate the seriousness of White House officials leaking the name of one of their own covert operatives, which, among other things, is a federal crime. However, the crime was not merely the leaking, but the pattern of widespread cover up and obstruction of justice by the WHIG/White House as a whole, which Fitzgerald is now investigating, in which all roads lead to the chief architect of the Iraq war, Cheney, through his alter ego Lewis Libby.

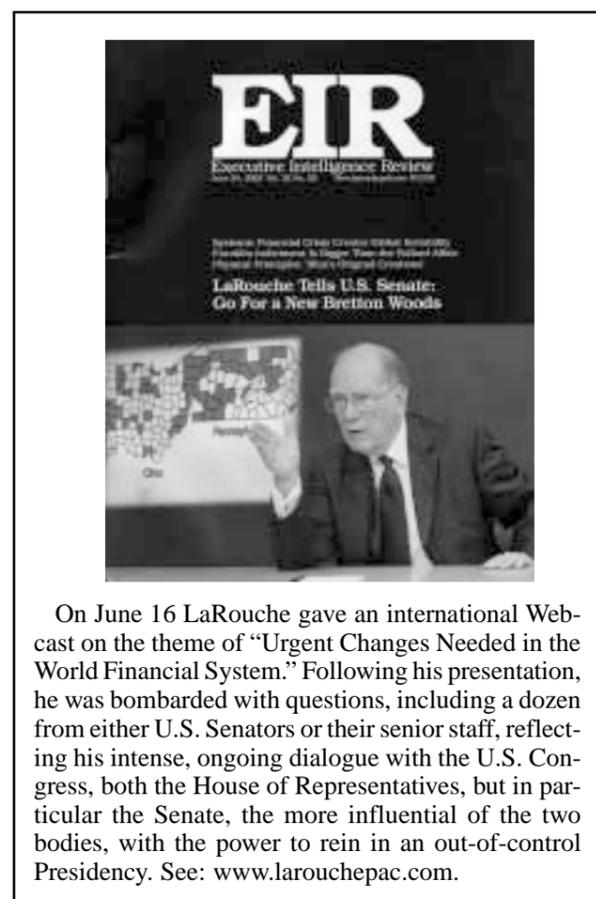

The Citizen and Immortality

Though Cheney must be dumped, as LaRouche has crusaded for years, the real problem is not the corruption of Cheney/Bush, but of the population itself, which elected these two. This is the nub of LaRouche's "The Pericles Syndrome" article, as it also is of great Classical tragedy, such as that of Shakespeare and Friedrich Schiller. In ancient Athens, it was the corruption of the population which allowed Pericles to lead Athens into the imperial adventure of the Peloponnesian War, which destroyed Athens.

The problem of Western civilisation up until now, is that it has often hung by the slimmest of threads, in that it has only produced a relative handful of precious leaders who have been essential to the survival or even existence of their nations. Joan of Arc was one such, who through her heroic death at the stake inspired the establishment of the first nation-state in history, France. Others were President Lincoln during the Civil War, or FDR during the 1930s and World War II, or our own John Curtin. Without the singular personality of FDR, fascism would have triumphed worldwide, and without the unique courage of his collaborator John Curtin, given the arch-appeasers in the Menzies-led conservatives, we might well be speaking Japanese. Indeed, LaRouche himself is such a precious figure today, without whom the U.S. would have gone under a fascist dictatorship long ago, and Australia, the U.K. and the rest of the world with it.

How do we produce a much greater ration of such leadership in our nations, so

On June 16 LaRouche gave an international Webcast on the theme of "Urgent Changes Needed in the World Financial System." Following his presentation, he was bombarded with questions, including a dozen from either U.S. Senators or their senior staff, reflecting his intense, ongoing dialogue with the U.S. Congress, both the House of Representatives, but in particular the Senate, the more influential of the two bodies, with the power to rein in an out-of-control Presidency. See: www.larouchepac.com.

as to assure their survival? The corruption of the average citizen lies in locating his or her identity solely in the pleasures and pains of their brief mortal existence, rather than in doing the good which shall live after them. When their mortal bodies have turned to dust, their personalities will still live in those works and ideas which they contributed to their nation, and to mankind as a whole. This is the question for you, as a citizen of Australia. Where do you locate your own identity in this troubled time for your nation and for the world? As LaRouche concludes his "The Pericles Syndrome",

"Therefore, the most important contribution you, personally, must now make, as an individual, is to become self-consciously an efficiently immortal human being. It is even the often pathetic attempt to reach something in that direction, which has helped us to progress as much as civilization has done. Even a serious attempt touches immortality. Immortality, so conceived, is the essential feature of our republic's constitutional law. It is that law which must be served." To read LaRouche's "The Pericles Syndrome", see <http://www.cecaust.com.au/pericles.htm>

What is Synarchism?

"Synarchism" is a name adopted during the Twentieth Century for an occult freemasonic sect, known as the Martinists, based on worship of the tradition of the Emperor Napoleon Bonaparte. During the interval from the early 1920s through 1945, it was officially classed by U.S.A. and other nations' intelligence services under the file name of "Synarchism: Nazi/Communist," so defined because of its deploying simultaneously both ostensibly opposing pro-communist and extreme right-wing forces for encirclement of a targeted government. Twentieth-Century and later fascist movements, like most terrorist movements, are all Synarchist creations.

Synarchism was the central feature of the organisation of the fascist governments of Italy, Germany, Spain, and Vichy and Laval France, during that period, and was also spread as a Spanish channel of the Nazi Party, through Mexico, throughout Central and South America. The PAN party of Mexico was born as an outgrowth of this infiltration. It is typified by the followers of the late Leo Strauss and Alexandre Kojeve today.

This occult freemasonic conspiracy, is found among both nominally left-wing and also extreme right-wing factions such as the editorial board of the Wall Street Journal, the Mont Pelerin Society, and American Enterprise Institute and Hudson Institute, and the so-called integrist far right inside the Catholic clergy. The underlying authority behind these cults is a contemporary network of private banks of that medieval Venetian model known as fondi. The Synarchist Banque Worms conspiracy of the wartime 1940s, is merely typical of the role of such banking interests operating behind sundry fascist governments of that period.

The Synarchists originated in fact among the immediate circles of Napoleon Bonaparte; veteran officers of Napoleon's campaigns spread the cult's practice around the world. G.W.F. Hegel, a passionate admirer of Bonaparte's image as Emperor, was the first to supply a fascist historical doctrine of the state. Nietzsche's writings supplied Hegel's theory the added doctrine of the beast-man-created Dionysiac terror of Twentieth-Century fascist movements and regimes. The most notable fascist ideologues of post-World War II academia are Chicago University's Leo Strauss, who was the inspiration of today's U.S. neo-conservative ideologues, and Strauss' Paris co-thinker Alexandre Kojeve.

—Lyndon H. LaRouche, Jr.

The World Needs a New Bretton Woods, Now!

The only way out of the systemic collapse of the entire world monetary system, an endless cycle of wars and a new dark age, is for sovereign nation states to adopt the New Bretton Woods monetary system, as uniquely proposed by LaRouche. Such a system would dump globalisation, and return to the best aspects of the old Bretton Woods established by President Franklin Delano Roosevelt in 1944, of fixed exchange rates, tariff protection, great infrastructure projects, comprehensive national health and education systems, and national banking, which system was destroyed when U.S. President Nixon took the dollar off gold in 1971.

The Italian Chamber of Deputies on April 6, 2005 passed a binding resolution calling for the Italian government to work for such a New Bretton Woods, and on June 20 four Australian MPs [Duncan Kerr (Denison), Peter Lindsay (Herbert), Wilson Tuckey (O'Connor), and Kelvin Thompson (Wills)] introduced CEC petitions into the Parliament, entitled "Australia Needs LaRouche's New Bretton Woods International Monetary System!" with the signatures of over 10,000 Australians.

The strength of the NBW campaign, as well as the profound seriousness of the matter, is otherwise reflected in the correspondence the CEC has received from: Prime Minister Howard; Deputy Prime Minister Mark Vaile; Treasurer Peter Costello (indirectly, in response to an MP "writing on behalf of Mr. Craig Isherwood, National Secretary, Citizens Electoral Council of Australia", as the Treasurer's letter noted); the Premiers of NSW, VIC, SA, QLD and TAS; the VIC and the NSW Treasurers and the Director-General of the NSW Cabinet Office; and some three dozen other Federal and State MPs. The letters were invariably polite (although the Treasurer queried the MP about "whether LaRouche's Executive Intelligence Review organized a seminar on June 28-29 in Berlin, titled "The U.S. Must Lead the Way to a New World Monetary System". Shown here are (l. to r.) Maj. Gen. Assir Karim (ret.) of India, Russian MP Dr. Sergei Glazyev, LaRouche, and moderator Michael Liebig. The seminar was attended by MPs or other leading representatives from Russia, China, India, Egypt, Israel, Hungary, Croatia, Slovakia, Czech Republic, Poland, Italy, France, Germany, Switzerland, and the United States.

you agree with Mr. Isherwood on this issue"), but almost all of them dodged the real issue—actually doing something toward establishing a New Bretton Woods.

And, although the Prime Minister conveyed his "best wishes to the Council for their future endeavours," he did not address the NBW issue directly.

What You Can Do

A Cheney nuclear strike against Iran will trigger a planetwide nuclear war, sooner or later. Therefore it is urgent that you call or visit your MP and demand to know what the Australian government knows about Cheney's plans, and whether they have signed on to them, as they did to the endless series of lies which gave us the war in Iraq. Beyond that, a positive solution to the present crisis is needed, and a visible, growing movement for a New Bretton Woods (NBW) in the U.S./U.K.-allied Australia, as a complement to the extraordinary developments which LaRouche is catalysing in the U.S., would have strategic consequences. In addition to demanding to know our government's stance on the planned war against Iran, you should also demand that your MP or Senator show the same wisdom as the Italian Chamber of Deputies, by publicly debating and passing a NBW resolution, and then working to implement it. To put more pressure on these MPs, mass distribute this paper, and circulate the latest petition for the NBW, for your state, which is obtainable from the CEC, or may be downloaded from the CEC's website, www.cecaust.com.au.
